News

PASoft’s daily business activity continues to be centered on supporting our client’s needs while we develop new products and applications. PAC, Government Relations, and Grassroots management remain key components of our business and our new product initiatives. In addition we are gradually expanding our capabilities in order to offer a broader range of consultative service solutions to you. Outlined below are highlights of some of our development work.

Using Java technology, our newest generation application is platform independent. This allows our clients to use their preferred database and operating system when it’s hosted in-house. We also offer web application hosting services as a convenience to our clients when IT resources are limited or unavailable.

In the past two months, PASoft has formed an alliance with two Atlanta companies to develop a smart, interactive e-communication tool. It will be applicable to multiple industries, but we especially see its value as a government/grassroots relationship management tool. We are excited and hope to introduce this new technology in the public affairs market during 3Q, ‘06.
